

Oil-gas prospectors eye Valley deposits

Copyright 1972, Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Prospectors for oil and gas have turned a covetous eye on the Magic Valley. And although not one single exploratory well has been drilled in the eight county area in a recent flurry of mineral leasing activity, leases on large chunks of federal, state and private land have been made in the last year and a half.

Statewide, one estimate says 4 million acres have been involved in leasing applications. In the Magic Valley over 200 square miles have been involved in lease applications.

A check of federal Bureau of Land Management records shows:

— Mineral lease applications have been made on nearly 150,000 acres in the Shoshone District of the BLM. The land involved falls in Gooding and Elmore counties, as well as a small acreage in Twin Falls and Jerome counties.

— Burley District BLM office records show lease rights have been awarded to a Carson City, Nev., man on 1,960 acres of federal land in southeastern Cassia County.

— The same district office shows applications being made by Marvin and Melvin Wolf, Denver, Colo., for 8,600 acres of land in Twin Falls County west of Buhl along Salmon Falls Creek.

— The Boise District BLM office records shows mineral leases being applied for, and in some cases granted, on nearly 60,000 acres of land in the northwestern portion of Twin Falls County, including land in the general area of the Bell Rapids desert entry project.

Moreover, geological experts are in general agreement that the possibility of oil or natural gas deposits under the Magic Valley is strong enough to encourage further exploration.

Dr. Roland Reid, dean of the College of Mines at the University of Idaho, said this week that the "sedimentary rocks in southeastern Idaho are like those in Wyoming and Utah that produce oil and gas," although he also said there were differences in the underground structure among the areas.

"There are indications of gas in the Snake River plain, although there has been no important commercial production yet," Reid said. In a 1937 geological report done by J. Val LeSiour on the "Kelton-Strevell Anticline" running from northern Utah into Southern Idaho, the author concluded, "Although no producing oil structure is known in this section of the country at the present time, the formations involved in the geology of this region are such as produced oil in Oklahoma, Northwestern New Mexico, Southwestern Utah and the La Barge Field of Wyoming."

The report's reasoning is based on the character of the land, which makes for a suitable source and reservoir material for oil and gas, as well as a "definite closed structure on the sedimentary beds to make possible a successful oil and gas field."

A report prepared more than 20 years later by a mining and petroleum engineer in Salt Lake City, following a review of the literature on the area's mineral possibility, advises "proceed with development."

George H. Allen, Carson City, Nev., who holds the leases in southeastern Cassia County, said this week he was "not in a position to say at this time just when drilling operations will get under way."

In addition to the leases he holds on federal land, Allen said, he also holds similar arrangements with two sections of Idaho state land (one section is 640 acres) as well as on 14,000 acres of privately owned territory.

Also, he said, he has "options" on an additional 18,000 private acres in Cassia and Twin Falls counties, as well as in northern Utah.

The records in the Shoshone District BLM office show the bulk of the filing has been done by the Gulf Oil Corp. The company has made application on all but a small amount of the 148,654 federal acres under application, with the records showing a Boise man, Tom Notestine making three applications on slightly over 500 acres in Gooding County.

Merle Good, a land specialist in the Boise District office of the BLM, also said applications had been filed, and most of them approved, on nearly 60,000 acres of BLM land in western Twin Falls County. He said most of the filings had been done by "big companies like Gulf."

In spite of geological reports and the intense application filing activity that has gone on in the Magic Valley, mostly in the past several months, some experts feel the activity locally is a spillover from even greater interest shown in the western portion of the state.

According to Barney Brunelle, a BLM mining engineer, applications on at least 1.5 million BLM acres have been filed in the areas of Ada, Gem, Elmore, Owyhee and Canyon counties. The number of applications total near 900, Brunelle said, and most of them have been filed by major oil companies, such as Standard of California, which, he said, filed the first application in the recent flurry in 1971, American Oil, Texaco, Chevron Oil, Cities Service and the Anschutz Corp., Inc., from Denver, Colo.

Under the Mineral Leasing Act of 1920, according to Brunelle, oil and gas leases are not issued competitively. Rather, he said, an application is merely filed with the state office of the Bureau of Land Management, if the land involved is federally owned, and the BLM regional officials make a recommendation on the request.

The final decision is made by state BLM officials, and if the lease is approved, it is in force for 10 years at an annual per acre cost of 50 cents, subject to any conditions attached by federal officials.

The BLM decision, Brunelle said, is influenced by an environmental analysis to determine if an "impact statement" is needed. In addition, he said, no one company or individual may file on more than 246,080 acres in any single state.

(The revenue from the leases as well as future royalties, if any, is divided among state and federal funds, Brunelle said, with 52 1/2 per cent of the money going to the federal Reclamation Fund, 37 1/2 per cent to the treasury of the state of Idaho, and the remaining 10 per cent deposited with the U.S. General Fund.)

Although the approval of applications for the mineral leases is often routine, according to Brunelle, gaining permission to sink a well is "a long street." Applications must be filed with the United States Geological Survey and with appropriate state authorities.

According to Reid, the college dean at the University of Idaho, applications for well drillings must be filed through the Idaho Oil and Gas Conservation Commission, of which he is secretary.

At the present time, according to Reid, three sets of applications for drilling permits have been requested, although none has been returned for processing.

Although no drilling applications have been filed, the Carson City, investor, Allen, said this week he had intentions of seeking the necessary permits.

"It is my intentions to try to drill a well in this area (southeastern Cassia County) on my own, or with the help of a select few investors, and have the satisfaction of bringing in the first commercial oil and or gas well in the State of Idaho."

Valley oil fields?

OIL AND natural gas leases are being sought by Gulf Oil Co. and other prospectors covering huge tracts of Magic Valley. So far, applications total more than 200 square miles, centering on Gooding county, with adjacent deposits in Twin Falls, Jerome and Elmore counties. A separate oil prospecting area is located in southeastern Cassia County, where lease rights have already been granted. Shaded areas on map suggest general areas of potential deposits, with dark areas showing locations of known lease applications.

US doctor wins Nobel

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The 1972 Nobel Prize for Medicine, now worth $100,000, was awarded today to Dr. Gerald Edelman of the United States and Dr. Rodney Porter of Britain for their studies of antibodies, the built in human mechanism against infection.

Scientists have concentrated on this study of immunology in hopes of finding some antibody that could kill cancer cells. A member of the Royal Carolina Institute, which awarded the prize, said Edelman's and Porter's work could lead to a cure of allergy and "certain forms" of tumors.

Professor Sven Gard of the 80-member board of the institute, said their scientific work is "enormously hard to understand" for a layman but added that their research has "paved the way for possibilities to cure such diseases as allergy, and certain forms of tumors."

"And besides this area is also of interest for transplantation surgery, where we have faced the problem to overcome the human body's autogenic rejection of transplanted organs," he added.

Other medical sources said the two scientists work means that science is now in a position to learn how to control the body's defenses—improving the defenses against bacterial, viral and other harmful invaders. It also means that scientists may abolish the body's defenses when needed—as in the case of vital organ transplants.

Gen Abrams top soldier

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams won Senate confirmation today to be Army chief of staff after a six-month controversy over whether he had knowledge of unauthorized U.S. air raids over North Vietnam last winter.

Abrams will assume command of an Army headed into a new era—made up entirely of volunteers for the first time since 1940.

But it was not how this rather gruff old soldier will carry out his new assignment but his role as top commander in Vietnam that delayed his confirmation.

Smiling Kissinger returns after 4-day peace session

PARIS (UPI) — U.S. Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, hatless and with a big smile, left for Washington today after completing four days of peace negotiations with the North Vietnamese.

Kissinger refused to comment to newsmen when he arrived in a U.S. Embassy limousine at the Orly airport VIP lounge. The White House said he had concluded his top secret talks and would report to President Nixon tonight.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said there were no further meetings between Kissinger and the two top North Vietnamese diplomats although Kissinger spent the night in Paris. He had been meeting with Le Duc Tho, a member of North Vietnam's ruling Politburo, and Xuan Thuy, the chief negotiator at the nonsecret Paris talks.

Kissinger and his deputy, Alexander M. Haig, were expected to deliver a first-hand report to Nixon on their return this evening. The President also will be returning to the White House from a campaign trip to Georgia.

The White House policy adviser, wearing a blue suit, blue necktie and blue shirt, smiled broadly at the crowd of newsmen who had been camped on and off at the airport for three days waiting for Kissinger's twice-postponed departure.

Bus bill on scrap heap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A tough House-passed bill to curb forced busing of school children headed for the Senate scrap heap today, the victim of a rare filibuster by northern liberals.

A third vote on a motion to shut off debate and let the legislation be decided on its merits was scheduled for shortly after 9 a.m. MDT — with every assurance it would be rejected as solidly as it was on two previous tallies.

Antibusing forces, spearheaded by deep South senators and backed by President Nixon mustered majorities both Tuesday and Wednesday to impose the Senate's rarely used gag rule. But each day they were 10 votes shy of the needed two-thirds margin required by the rules to invoke cloture.

With final congressional adjournment looming this week-end, it seemed certain the bill would be set aside to make way for vital legislation.

Pro-busing forces were weighing the possibility of more parliamentary skirmishing to keep the bill alive, but they realized they had been beaten and weren't expected to try the Senate's patience much longer.

"If we were close, I'd be going all out to scrape up the votes," one antibusing leader said. "But everybody wants to go home and we may start losing the votes we have if we push it too far."

Both sides believed the bill would pass

Commies call Nixon cynic, attack talks

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnamese Communists today accused the Nixon administration of cynicism and said they had doubts whether the administration really wants peace.

Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister, and North Vietnamese deputy negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy, strongly attacked the Nixon administration. They made no mention of secret talks behind the scenes by White House adviser Henry Kissinger, who remained in Paris a fifth consecutive day.

Chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy did not show up at today's 163rd Vietnam conference meeting. His absence strengthened reports he was away to take part in new expanded talks with Kissinger.

Madame Binh, looking grim, said outside the conference hall that U.S. bombing raids and South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu's recent statements "make us doubt the will and desire of peace of the Nixon administration."

"The Nixon administration continues to escalate the war, intensifying the bombing in North and South Vietnam," she said.

"These days, B52s dropped thousands of bombs around Saigon on the heart of Hanoi. At the same time Thieu calls for the pursuit of the war. All these things make us doubt

Attorney won't answer

WARSAW, N.Y. (UPI)—Attorney William Kunstler said Wednesday he would go to jail rather than answer a special panel's questions about inmate actions during the Attica prison rebellion.

Kunstler is due to appear today before a panel investigating the riot in September, 1971. A total of 43 persons were killed during the uprising.

He has lost his court fight to avoid testifying.

"My toothbrush is in my pocket and if I have to, I am prepared to go to jail," Kunstler said at the State University at Buffalo.

He called the panel "a hanging jury and it's going to indict inmates. They may throw in a few expendable corrections officers, but the real focal point is the inmates."

Kunstler said he was willing to speak about parts of the uprising not directly related to his discussions with the inmates.

the will and desire of peace of the Nixon administration.

"One cannot desire peace and at the same time accumulate crimes condemned by the whole of mankind," she said.

Madame Binh said she called on the U.S. delegation to accept the Viet Cong plan for a tripartite cabinet to be formed after Thieu's dismissal, and complete U.S. military pullout.

"This is the only reasonable and logical way for the Americans to get out of the war," she said.

Inside the conference room, Mrs. Binh said the war can be settled only on the following, long-restated terms, giving no hint of any concession in the Communist position:

—Complete cessation of U.S. bombing raids and the blockade of North Vietnam, withdrawal of all troops, advisers and war material and an end of all American support for Thieu.

—Creation of a three-segment "national concord" coalition cabinet in Saigon with guarantees that no faction will try to eliminate its partners. The transition cabinet would organize new elections on South Vietnam's political status.

"Peace will be rapidly re-established if the American government responds positively to the two basic demands formulated by this declaration," Mrs. Binh said.

In his formal statement at the meeting, Vy said: "The American side in this moment more than any time before speaks of the pressing need to put an end to the hostilities and re-establish peace."

"Thus it has no reason not to seize upon this new opportunity, that is giving a prompt and positive reply to the two demands formulated in the Sept. 11, 1972, declaration of the Viet Cong Provisional Revolutionary government with a view of allowing an honorable U.S. disengagement from Vietnam."

Madame Binh gave no hint as to whether the secret talks held by Kissinger had made any progress toward a compromise. Kissinger's decision to postpone his return to Washington for the second time had sparked some reports the talks were making progress.

Club votes topic prize

BURLEY — Mrs. Joan Hurst was the table topic winner during the Tuesday meeting of the Burley Toastmistress Club at Unity Light and Power Co. conference room.

The educational lesson was directed by Mrs. Maude Baker who gave the members a test on listening. Table topics were directed by Mrs. Lillian Jensen. Mrs. Hurst was selected as table topic winner.

For the program the members each spoke or read an article which was taped. After each had spoken, the tape was played back. Mrs. Georgia Layton and Mrs. Lea Clayton arranged the program, taped the speeches and played them back, following the general meeting theme of listening. Mrs. LaRue Cheney served as timer.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Beryl Gules, president. It was announced the Toastmistress Council Seven meeting will begin at 9:15 a.m. Oct. 21 at Price's Cafe. Burley Toastmistress Club will be hostess. The council includes Toastmistress Clubs from Twin Falls, Jerome, Mindoka and Cassia Counties. Mrs. Mary Arrington, Twin Falls, is council chairman.

Oct. 24-30 is Founder's Week. Mrs. Hartell Woodland was appointed chairman of Founder's Week activities for the club.

Opening exercises were directed by Mrs. Anica Black. General evaluator was Mrs. Shirley Povlsen. Mrs. Viola Bloch was a guest. Refreshments furnished by Mrs. Edith Raustad and Mrs. Gwen King were served by Mrs. Layton and Mrs. Sarah Hess. Assignments for the Oct. 24 meeting were made by the program committee.

Project decided

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls Soroptimist Club will give away a cedar chest filled with merchandise Nov. 17.

The project was decided upon at a meeting at the Rogerson Restaurant Tuesday. Tickets may be obtained from any member or at the Montgomery Ward Catalog Sales Agency. The chest will be on display there Oct. 23 through Nov. 17.

It was decided that members of the club will assist the Salvation Army with their kettles during the Christmas holidays. Reports were given by committee chairmen. It was reported that the traveling basket has started again.

Rebekahs drape charter

FILER — Miriam Rebekah members draped their charter for Mrs. Edith Klevinger, Burley, late president of the Rebekah Assembly of Idaho at their Tuesday evening meeting.

Taking part in the memorial ceremony were Mrs. Tempa Ellenwood, Mrs. Iris Hostetter, Mrs. Joe Lux, Mrs. Beth Haman and Mrs. Samantha Long, under the direction of Minerva Lorain.

The lodge now has Christmas cards for sale. Two dances have been held for fund-raising projects to defray the expenses of sending Mrs. Ellenwood and Mrs. Irene Childers to the Rebekah Assembly at Moscow. Canned fruit has been purchased for the AMOS food train for the IOOF hall at Caldwell.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank Stradley, Mrs. Roy Lancaster and Mrs. Larry Davis.

Honors set for cadet squadron

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Civil Air Patrol Cadet Squadron will be honored as the nation's outstanding unit Saturday night.

Gov. Cecil Andrus has proclaimed Saturday as Twin Falls Civil Air Patrol Cadet Squadron Recognition Day in Idaho.

The honor was given Twin Falls squadron on a basis of four major activities leadership training, physical fitness, aerospace service and moral leadership. Activities of the past year were considered in the judging.

Sections of the Twin Falls squadron was announced in a national conference which several members attended in Dallas, Tex., a month ago.

The Saturday night dinner will be highlighted by the presentation of the awards. Sgt. Bill Donnelly, Air Force recruiter, and Maj. James Conder, Air Force liaison officer for the CAP, said state and regional Civil Air Patrol and Air Force officials will be on hand for the program.

Maj. Gen. George Bennett, adjutant for Idaho, will represent Gov. Andrus in presenting the award. Rocky Mountain regional CAP commander, Col. Frank Swain, Denver, and Col. Francis Goldsberry, Denver, also plan to attend.

Idaho CAP wing commander, Col. George Faulkner, Rupert, will attend as will Mayor and Mrs. John Christoffersen, Twin Falls.

Cadets and members of their families will be honored guests. The dinner will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Rogerson Hotel.

There are 22 members in the squadron at this time with Doug Bottimer as cadet commander. Last year Dale Hammond was cadet commander and he is now attending University of Idaho. Nine adults also belong to the squadron including Harley Hammond, former squadron commander, and his wife, Helen Hammond, current commander.

This is the first Idaho squadron to win such high honors, Major Conder said. Cadets from Twin Falls were competing with between 350 and 380 other squadrons from throughout the country.

Sergeant Donnelly said three years ago the Twin Falls squadron, then a relatively small group, was reactivated and began establishing a schedule of training and service.

Members have participated in search and rescue missions, Civil Defense programs, and in the aerospace education seminar at Weber State College, Utah. In addition, they have flown to various air bases in the West to attend one-day encampment programs with Air Force officials.

Idaho PTA meet set in Lewiston

DIETRICH Details of the Idaho Parent-Teacher Association convention this weekend at Lewiston are announced by Mrs. Floyd Kisting, Dietrich, state president.

Theme of the event, to be held Friday and Saturday at Hotel Lewis-Clark, is "PTA is Kid's Stuff — Try it — You'll Like it."

Mrs. Walter G. Kimmel, Rock Island, Ill., will represent the national PTA at the convention. She is co-ordinator of legislative activity. Both national and state legislative issues will be voted upon by delegates in attendance.

During the business meeting at 1 p.m. Friday officers will be elected, by-laws amended and other PTA business handled. Seminars will be presented by personnel from the State Department of Education, State Health Department and members of the Volunteers in Court program.

Mrs. Carol Andrus, wife of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, is the acting honorary membership chairman for the Idaho PTA. Gov. and Mrs. Andrus will attend the closing banquet Saturday night.

2 medics join TF clinic

TWIN FALLS — Two physicians have joined the staff of the Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital.

They are Dr. Patrick P. Desmond and Dr. Donald G. Pica. Both have been certified in the field of internal medicine by the American Board of Internal Medicine.

Dr. Desmond, who lives with his wife and two children at 824 Alturas Drive No., received his M. D. degree from the University of Kentucky, served his internship in the Baltimore City Hospital, and his residency in internal medicine at the University of Oregon Medical School Hospital.

He has had a fellowship in internal medicine at the Johns Hopkins University concurrent with his internship. He served with the United States Air Force for two years, including a tour of duty at Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Dr. Pica, his wife and three children, have purchased a home on Falls Avenue East. A graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School, Dr. Pica took his internship at Kalamazoo, Mich., and served his internal medicine residency at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

Following that he had a one year fellowship in rheumatology. Dr. Pica served as a flight surgeon at Mountain Home Air Force Base during his military service.

Boise man shot

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise man died early today from a gunshot wound in his head and police questioned an unidentified woman about the shooting.

Attendants at St. Alphonsus Hospital said Tony Linton, 48, died at 2:04 a.m. from the 22-caliber bullet wound in his left temple.

Linton was shot Wednesday evening and rushed to the hospital about 9:10 p.m.

Press exaggerates attitudes

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

First Congressional District candidate Steve Symms said Wednesday in Moscow his attitudes on land management are, at best, greatly exaggerated by the press.

"Press reports would have you believe I want to abolish the Bureau of Land Management," Symms, a Republican, said. "Actually, I'd like to see the BLM actually do the job it was designed for."

"I would, it's true, like to see some of this federal land turned loose for other purposes than agriculture, which is presently the only beneficiary."

"Housing developments and industrial sites on land unfit for agriculture, such as land around Gowen Field near Boise, would relieve the demand for such land and would help prevent the location of such developments on good farm land," Symms said.

Meanwhile, Democratic candidate Willis Ludlow said in Idaho Falls Wednesday that the House of Representatives was abdicating its constitutional responsibilities by giving the President the power to cut spending however he chooses in order to stay within a ceiling of $250 billion dollars.

Ludlow, a candidate for Congress from the Second District, told supporters at the opening of the Idaho Falls Democratic Party headquarters that "the Constitution places responsibility on Congress for controlling the purse strings."

"It is irresponsible and unconstitutional for Congress to give up its power and responsibility," Ludlow said.

He said the House has voted to let the President change at "his whim" the laws adopted by Congress.

U. S. Senate nominee William E. (Bud) Davis criticized his opponent, Rep. James McClure, Wednesday for failing to vote on the Atomic Energy Commission appropriations for the past four years.

Campaigning in Idaho Falls, Davis said, "Mr. McClure's excuses his voting attendance record of only 58 per cent by saying the votes he missed were on measures not important to the people of Idaho."

Yet in the past four years, Davis said, he missed two roll call votes granting funds for the Nuclear Reactor Testing Station near Arco, one of Idaho's and the nation's most important research centers.

McClure made public Wednesday the results of the first Congressional polls to be taken entirely with environmental questions.

The results of approximately 15,000 ballots returned by residents of the First Congressional District confirmed "a deep commitment our people have in protecting the environment," McClure said.

McClure said nearly 44 per cent believed that clear-cutting of our forests should be allowed, but "strictly enforced." He noted that in some areas "clear-cutting is necessary — if proper regrowth is to occur."

McClure said 49 per cent responding to the survey thought mining on public domain should be allowed, but "strictly enforced."

Republican Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy said Wednesday that "this is one of the few times I've found myself in agreement with Idaho's liberal Senator."

Murphy referred to a press release Tuesday which quoted Idaho Sen. Frank Church as saying it would take "a kind of political miracle" for Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern to defeat President Nixon in the November election.

In other political action, Idaho's Democratic national committeewoman, Carolyn Selander, Boise, has called upon Republicans in Idaho to publicly condemn unethical actions of persons associated with the committee to re-elect the president.

Speaking to American government classes at Boise's Borah High School, Mrs. Selander said that all Americans, regardless of party affiliation, should make known their opposition to what she termed "attempts by the Republican Party to discredit the Democratic Party by manipulation of the public trust and by apparent carefully plotted tactics against Democratic Party candidates."

State aide pledges stiff standards on Kellogg firm

BOISE (UPI) — Dr. James Bax, administrator of the Idaho Department of Environmental Protection and Health, said Wednesday that his department will impose "as stiff as possible" air and water pollution regulations on the Bunker Hill Mining Co. in northern Idaho.

Bax said under proposed regulations the state would require the company in Kellogg to remove 85 per cent of all sulfur dioxide pollutants by mid-1975.

An article earlier this week by two Washington Post investigative reporters, disclosed that a $100,000 contribution to President Nixon's campaign came from a Texas corporation at a time when its major subsidiary, Bunker Hill Mining Co., was under pressure to correct its air and water pollution problems.

The proposed federal standards would require that the company remove 96 per cent of all sulfur dioxide by 1977.

One high official for the environmental protection agency, who declined to be identified in the article, said it is virtually certain that the federal government would back down and adopt the state regulations

Both Bax and his assistant administrator A. J. Eiguren, director of the department's environmental protection division, feel that the state regulations will provide cleaner air sooner because they would take effect in 1975, two years before the proposed federal regulations would be adopted. Eiguren said the 85 per cent figure is "technologically feasible and further reduction of sulfur dioxides could take place after 1975 through advances in technology."

Car strikes TF house

TWIN FALLS — About $125 damage resulted to a Twin Falls residence Wednesday afternoon when a car involved in an accident struck it.

Twin Falls Police said Peggy N. Anthony, 40, Twin Falls, was traveling north on Washington Street North when a car driven by Dorothea McCracken, 77, Twin Falls, pulled across the street in front of her.

The two cars collided in the intersection of Shoup and North Washington, and the McCracken vehicle swerved and struck a house at 198 Washington St. N., owned by Frank Fiscus.

Waremart saves those who help themselves.

Not long ago, grocery markets had one long counter and one tired clerk, who had to hand you every item of your choice. Then came the long aisles and the advantages of self service. But those were the days before many S-o-o-per Markets added costly window dressings — such as chrome carts, super polished floors, lacquered shelves, magic ceiling lighting — and Overhead Overhead is what gets added to your food costs. When the Overhead is too S-o-o-per — so are your grocery bills.

That's where Waremart gets down to earth. On your grocery bills. We use the old fashioned idea of saving you money by not over dressing the store. And we let you help yourself in a lot of old fashioned ways. For instance, no bags (to tear out at the bottom). We give you empty cartons and a marking pencil. We cut the tops off the cases, slap a price sticker on the outside. With the cost of one item or the whole case (if you want a case). And let you loose to help yourself to big savings on nationally advertised brand items. There's great browsing and wide aisles of big savings — all waiting for you to make a new habit of economy.

Feel like helping yourself to grocery savings? While you feed your family better? We can only open our doors. You have to help yourself from there on in. We may not be perfect, but the floors are clean and the goods are cheap. Heaven knows we love to save you money on your total grocery bill. We're cheap!

Spirit Of '76

A truly national observance of the 200th birthday of the United States in 1976 is going to depend upon the grass roots.

There will be no "world's fair" with its commercial orientation but there can be general participation in community and state functions to emphasize their rich historical and cultural heritages.

Four years is a comparatively short time in which to take care of the necessary planning, but it is sufficient, provided there is the will to do it.

We have been undergoing a period of emphasis upon the imperfections in our nation. The bi-centennial celebration can redress the balance, calling attention to our country's impressive accomplishments in bringing man's noblest aspirations closer to reality and drawing inspiration from our historic greatness for the courage and dedication needed to solve the problems of our third century.

A new "Spirit of '76" is needed to rededicate our nation and unite anew our people in the spirit of peace, brotherhood and the desire to be "good neighbors" to each other and to all nations.

Bunker Hill and Independence Hall belong to the nation as much as to Massachusetts and Philadelphia. The pride and purpose the nation shared in its fledgling days are needed now in its maturity.

This community - and every other - is a part of the rich tapestry of the American way of life - still the best hope of all mankind.

What's right with America is a far longer list than what's wrong with it. Let's concentrate on what's right for awhile. We'll be the better for it.

We have a lot to celebrate.

Smallpox

Eradication of smallpox throughout the world within 18 months is the goal of the World Health Organization. Experts believe it is an attainable goal.

Endemic smallpox which means the kind not brought into a country by someone infected with the disease, has been eliminated from the Western Hemisphere through a major effort begun by WHO in 1966.

Smallpox, once one of man's most dreaded diseases is still endemic in parts of Africa, India and the East Indies, but experts at the U. S. Center for Disease Control in Atlanta and WHO believe it can be eliminated from those areas by 1976.

This would coincide with the 100th anniversary of the United States and would be a milestone in human history. It would mark the first time any major disease has been completely eradicated.

MR. SPECTATOR

It's Getting Close

In most elections you can tell when the time to vote is coming in high gear. This general election seems to be no different than ones before it. This time the time and cry centers around the reporting of campaign contributions. It also centers around Cong. McClure, now running for the Senate on the Republican ticket. He has refused to reveal the source of campaign contributions which came in before adoption of the law requiring such reporting.

Well, what's wrong with that. Absolutely nothing, when you come right down to it. There is nothing in the law requiring reports on the contributions prior to the law. In fact, Cong. McClure and other candidates should not be expected to report at all.

Mr. Spectator was one of those present at a political gathering just a day or two before the report law went into effect. At that time one of the local campaign personages for Cong. McClure said contributions would be accepted at that session - and that public reporting was not necessary.

With this assurance, two local businessmen made substantial contributions to the campaign fund. Why, now, should such contributions be reported? There was nothing wrong in the situation. It's just that, for some reason, these men didn't want it broadcast they were making a political donation. Their reason for not wanting it broadcast is their own.

Now, such contributions are public knowledge. This is as it should be - but before the present law became effective there was nothing to cause such announcements.

So why all the fuss? Like we said, it's simply politics. Just something to whip around so some people will believe there is something wrong and sinister going on.

GIVEAWAY DEPT.

This is really not a giveaway - but a findaway. Received a note from Mrs. Ida Russell at 213 South Seventh Avenue, Buhl, and she reported she has lost her cat, a big Siamese of gray color. The animal is about nine years old and has always stayed part Americans have played in fighting not only smallpox but other killers such as polio and tuberculosis is one of which the nation can be proud.

Public Health doctors urge the necessity for America to keep helping the rest of the world to get rid of smallpox. From a dollars and cents standpoint, it costs $140 million a year to keep smallpox out of the United States while we are spending $15 million to fight it elsewhere. Therefore, it is to our financial benefit as well as the humanitarian thing to do to press the attack everywhere.

President Nixon has noted the Soviet-U. S. agreement to cooperate in medicine may mark "a great turning point" in man's struggle against cancer and other scourges.

In the battle against disease, the world is one family.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Never underestimate the adaptability of the free enterprise system. With criminal offenses soaring, the business of fighting crime has become a growth industry, according to the financial publication Business Week Letter. Because of the rise in crime, there has also been a big rise in the call for crime prevention services. This market is growing faster than the crime rate.

WINTERFYLLETH

There is none to say ill of October, when all the months smile and bow. October is a blend of the gentle and balmy wind that is March at its best and the first harbinger of spring, the velvet greenery of meadow that is the lush grass of summer just before its ripening; the gold and scarlet that is the royal color pegeant of autumn; then the hoar-frost that is the very mantle of winter itself.

October is the eighth month of the old Roman year, which began in March. In the Julian calendar, while retaining its old name, it became the tenth month and had 31 days assigned to it.

By the Slavs, October is called the "yellow month," from the fading of the leaf. To the Anglo-Saxons it was known as Winterfylleth, because at this full moon "fylleth" winter was supposed to begin.

By whatever name, October is the realization of nature's promise of seedtime and harvest, a time of rich and heady beauty. It is a hearty and hale month.

Shriver's Snippy Advance Crew

WASHINGTON — Sargent McGovernite youths — rocky, party regulars. One of Shriver's frequent. Virtually no day of stumping goes by without them. Time and again, party poins whom the McGovern slate is now anxiously depending to get out the vote they irately complained that the first they knew about Shriver's coming was when they read about it in the press. The hot-shot advance men, all New Left zealots and would-be world savers, had blithely gone ahead and made all arrangements without bothering to consult or notify the politicians.

Shriver has dropped hints that one of the chief problems in setting up his own crew of advance men is the cost.

That seemed odd — in view of the great wealth of the aristocratic, mod-attired Marylander's in-laws. His own wife, the former Eunice Kennedy, was left trust funds of more than $25 million by her father, the late Ambassador Joseph Kennedy. He also left $1 million trust funds to all of his grandchildren, including the Shrivers.

In a recent published financial statement, Mrs. Shriver reported having $132,000 in checking and saving accounts, $25,000 in bonds and $400,000 in jewelry and other personal items. Shriver himself said he made $108,000 practicing law last year. That's not peanuts, and financing a small crew of advance men doesn't run into big money.

Further, the Kennedys as a family are worth nearly $1 billion.

A few thousand from each of them to help Shriver would never be missed.

But intriguingly, knowledgeable insiders say flatly the Kennedys have not yet contributed a dime to the McGovern-Shriver campaign. Whether they will, and how much, remains to be seen.

Further these sources say there is no love lost between the Kennedys and Shriver; that Sen. Ted Kennedy and other members of the family are distinctly cool to Shriver; and that he and Ted haven't talked since McGovern hurriedly made him his running-mate after ditching Sen. Thomas Eagleton.

Smallpox

Some other letters about whether to have a child vaccinated against smallpox make me think some further details, in addition to previous remarks, will be helpful.

One letter:
Dear Doctor: My daughter is 9 months old, and our doctor advised us that she will be inoculated for smallpox in the fall. However, almost all the other doctors in our community no longer give the vaccine. They feel that the reactions to the vaccine are dangerous and that smallpox is no longer a threat. We don't know what to do —

Mrs. M. I.
It's true that some infants have severe reactions to smallpox vaccine, and one has to be particularly cautious with children who have eczema or are known to have severe allergies.

One of my pediatric consultants says he saw one fatal reaction in a child in 40 years — it was a child with eczema. Personally in 35 years of practice, I have never encountered such a case. But then, it's a long time since either of us has seen a case of smallpox here.

While many physicians have given up routine smallpox vaccinations, following the view of the Center of Disease Control and the Academy of Pediatrics that the risk of vaccination is greater than the risk of smallpox, there are others who believe in vaccination, remembering what happened when we still had smallpox epidemics. The correct answer will come only after we see what happens in the future.

There is this change in viewpoint many physicians feel that vaccination can well be postponed until a child is 12 to 18 months old. By that time one is more able to note eczema or allergic reactions, and omit vaccination in such children. That is wise.

For the healthy child, I still lean toward vaccination, having in mind the resurgence of measles and rubella, for which vaccine is available, but people became negligent after the first enthusiasm for vaccination had waned. For another, I have been impressed by the number of older folks who had "takes" with smallpox vaccination despite having been vaccinated years before. The immunity fades with time.

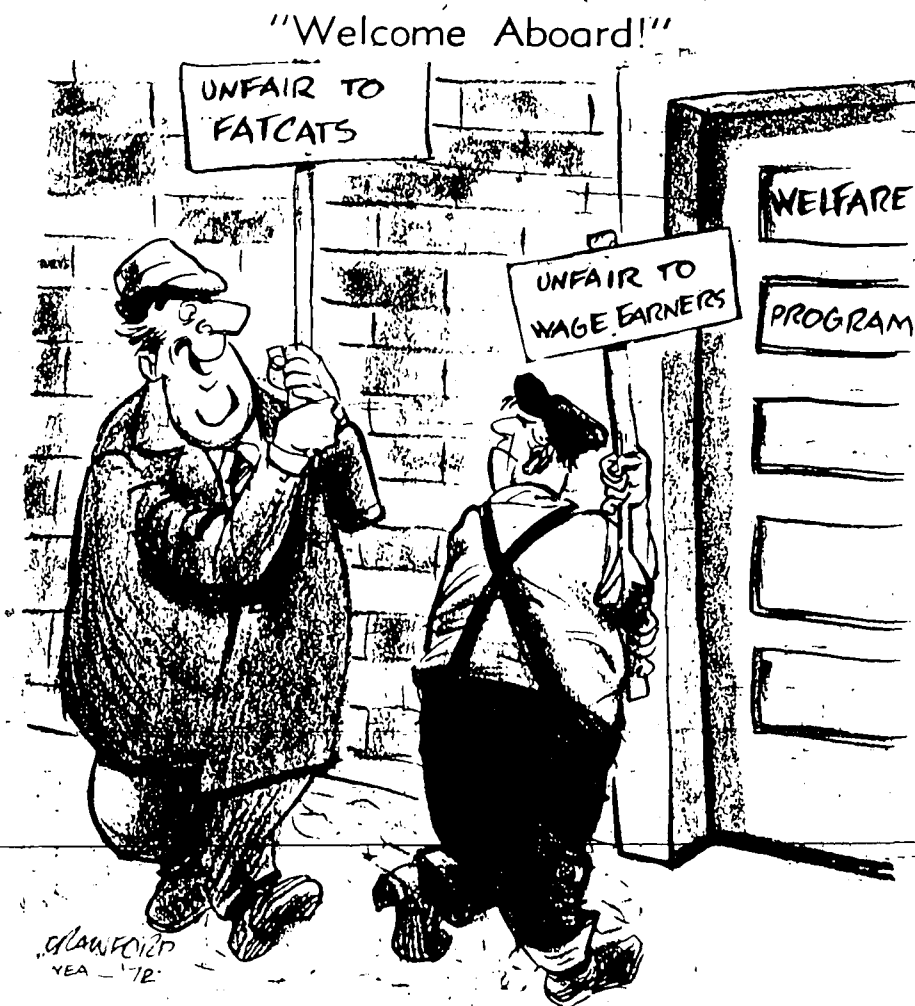

I may be wrong, but at present I have a preference for vaccinating healthy children but omitting it in children with eczema or allergies. They are the ones who are more likely to be troubled by the vaccine.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 64, have high blood pressure, am not overweight but am very nervous. I have been told by a few people that the pills I am taking will make me go out of my mind. The medication is a tranquilizer, and I take one to three pills a day as needed, but don't always need three. I would appreciate what you have to say about it. — Mrs. T. A.

You're in a lot more danger of "going out of your mind" by listening to those crepe-hanging friends, because tranquilizers certainly will not do so.

Your nervousness contributes to your high blood pressure, so those "friends" are doing you no good, and may be doing you some harm by making you more nervous than you are.

Note to Mrs. McG.: Yes, there are medications used for high cholesterol. Clofibrate brings some reduction, varying from patient to patient. A form of niyroid is used in many cases. But it is essential to follow a low-fat, low calorie diet, too.

Capsule Comment

WASHINGTON — An old friend who worked long and faithfully for the FBI under J. Edgar Hoover without falling prey to sycophancy offers a capsule comment on FBI Boss L. Patrick Gray's transfer of the Special Agent in Charge in Hawaii because the wives of several agents complained about their husbands' working conditions.

Under Hoover, the wives knew better than to complain, says this source, who is still an FBI official. But if they had Hoover would have disciplined their husbands, not the Special Agent in Charge.

He was saying that Gray, a former Navy captain already noted for his tight-ship operation of the FBI, has something Hoover never had: an open mind about how the show should be run. As a result every report from inside the bureau is that the FBI not only is a tighter but a happier ship. Gray has made it plain he cares about the working staff, while cracking down on bureaucratic inefficiency and the kind of politicking by straw bosses that is aimed at currying favor with the director.

This is all to the good. Without derogating Hoover's high competence as a lawman and administrator, he ran the FBI as his personal fiefdom. The name of the game was to please Hoover, and down that path beckoned promotion and juicy assignments. Agents who disagreed with Hoover over the time of day or the color of a necktie usually wound up in some isolated littoral.

A personal reminiscence seems relevant. Several years ago I wrote a book on the FBI and the publisher threw a party for Hoover, the press and a few agents who had helped get the book into print. During the evening, the comely wife of one of the agents approached Hoover for a handshake. The boss was all smiles until the lady mentioned "rather tentatively that she didn't see much of her husband because he worked so much overtime."

Hoover's expression froze into a grim, tight-lipped frown. "Your husband is an FBI agent, Madame," he told the lady, then turned away in dismissal.

I suppose Hoover had a point, of a sort. Because of its singular responsibilities, the FBI can never be a 9 to 5 operation. In most investigations, time is of the essence and an agent cannot leave his pursuit of a case until tomorrow merely because the clock says it's official quitting time. Most agents recognize this fact of life, just as the faceless city cop knows he can't postpone his work on a mugging lest the offender get away.

But FBI agents are also human, and many of them are married and have children. While their first duty is to their job and to the kind of dedication it requires, they also live lives outside the bureau and the prudent administrator will take this into consideration.

Although Gray is just as hard-bitten as Hoover, he seems to be trying to humanize the FBI. He has relaxed regulations on dress and hair length and set up a system whereby agents' complaints can get a hearing.

Hoover would have shunned such innovations: You did what your immediate superior told you to do — period. You did not go over his head with your problems. In short, not only Hoover but those to whom he delegated authority were immune to the second guess.

BERRY'S WORLD

"... as a matter of fact, a certain amount of 'shady goings on' and 'dirty business' in politics is a good thing—tradition, you know!"

Demo hopes to ignite youth vote

BOSTON (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern has returned to the university and college campus, hoping to once again ignite the young, tireless and enthusiastic students who helped him win the Democratic presidential nomination.

At the same time, McGovern continues his sharp criticism of the administration's Vietnam policy, still the number one issue of the presidential campaign with the young.

Ending a month-long self-imposed absence from the nation's campuses, McGovern addressed students at Western Michigan University Tuesday and at Wheaton College Wednesday.

More campus visits are planned today and next week. McGovern strategists found apathy among students after they returned to school, and his series of appearances at universities and colleges are designed to spark them into a major effort between now and election day.

Students, from junior high on up, served as the shock troops of McGovern's blitz of the presidential primaries, manning phones, handing out leaflets, ringing doorbells, and getting people to vote. McGovern hopes they will serve the same function once again.

A top aide said the visits to the campuses, which have forced a cutback on downtown rallies, are designed to convince the students—not only at a particular school but all over the nation—that he speaks for them and needs them.

3 witnesses won't testify

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Banking Committee chairman says he will go ahead with a hearing today on alleged political espionage by President Nixon's campaign committee despite the refusal of three key witnesses to appear.

Banking chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., blamed the White House for their refusal to testify, calling the decision "a sad spectacle—a massive cover-up and concealment of the greatest political espionage ever carried out in the history of the nation."

Patman in a letter Tuesday invited four officials of Nixon's campaign committee to testify voluntarily.

Campaign Chairman Clark MacGregor, Finance Chairman Maurice Stans and consultant John N. Mitchell turned down Patman's request in a letter written Wednesday by their attorney, Kenneth Wells Parkinson. White House aide John Dean was not expected to show up today, although he had not formally notified Patman.

Patman said he would hold hearings regardless, but ranking Republican William B. Widnall of New Jersey said there might not be a quorum. Widnall said he and "many other" members would boycott the hearing because it violated rules requiring it to be scheduled at least one week in advance.

While the Nixon campaign officials were declining to testify, two Republican members of Congress joined Democrats in asking for fuller disclosure of facts.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he accepts Nixon's denial of any knowledge of alleged espionage, but added "I do believe that our party ought to fully and frankly and directly say anything it knows about it."

And Rep. John G. Schmitz said, "These charges are far too serious to be dismissed with a bland 'no comment' or a brief circumstantial denial."

Schmitz, who is serving out a term as a California Republican, is the American Party's candidate for President.

The reports alleging widespread espionage were published in the Washington Post and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch this week.

Agnew speaks in Alabama

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Wednesday night he wonders whether Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern has "ever assessed the merits of our involvement" in Vietnam.

Agnew, addressing a Republican rally that drew a crowd of about 8,000, said McGovern "has called our South Vietnamese allies a bunch of thieves and drug pushers that are not worth supporting."

"There has been no condemnation for North Vietnam, a country that has waged war ruthlessly on its neighbors," the vice president said.

"That kind of support makes one wonder whether McGovern has ever sat down and assessed the merits of our involvement in that war," he said.

The vice president spent the night here and was to leave early today aboard his chartered jet for another campaign stop in New Mexico.

The two most popular amusement park rides have always been the merry-go-round and the roller coaster.

Church supports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church announced Wednesday he will support putting a lid on federal spending, but said he opposes giving the president full power to decide where to make the cuts.

Church said he approves of an amendment to the pending debt ceiling bill offered by Idaho Sen. Len B. Jordan, which is designed to maintain congressional authority over the federal purse.

Waits turn

A WIDE YAWN is displayed by the grandson of Democratic Presidential nominee, Sen. George McGovern, while his mother, Mrs. Susan McGovern Rowan, the senator's daughter, waits her turn to speak in favor of her father at a rally held on the University of Massachusetts campus. (UPI)

Schmitz hopeful of aid

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI)—American party presidential candidate John Schmitz said Wednesday he is still hopeful that he will receive the endorsement of Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

Wallace, founder of the party and its first presidential candidate in 1968, said Tuesday he will not endorse a presidential candidate in this year's election.

"Governor Wallace's doctors have not permitted him to engage in political activity," Schmitz said. "However, I do not expect that he would endorse either President Nixon or Senator George McGovern."

When asked if he thought Wallace would endorse his candidacy, Schmitz asked, "Who else would he endorse?"

Injunction canceled

CALDWELL, (UPI)—A hearing on the state's motion for a permanent injunction against the Mountain View Caldwell Convalescent Center Wednesday was cancelled in third district court with no later date set.

Judge Edward J. Lodge, with the agreement of attorneys for both sides, granted time for further investigation of the alleged violations and to make corrections and additional charges if needed.

Nixon goes to Atlanta

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon takes his re-election campaign on the road for the first time in two weeks today with a one-day foray to Atlanta. It probably will be his only pre-election appearance in the South where he expects to win with ease.

The object of the 3 1/2-hour visit is to show the Nixon flag in the region without giving any more help than absolutely necessary to Republican opponents of conservative Democratic senators.

Nixon will campaign side-by-side with Rep. Fletcher Thompson, the Republican candidate for the senate in Georgia. But Republican senatorial nominees from other Southern states were not even invited to a reception for GOP officials from 10 states.

Nixon has made no campaign trips since he returned Sept. 28 from three days in New York and California. Aides have said he will maintain his low political profile at least until the final week before the Nov. 7 election.

The President's only scheduled public exposure in Atlanta was in a motorcade along Peachtree street. He planned just one speech, to an invitation-only reception for officials of his campaign committees and of Republican party organizations from Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Nixon's political strategists are convinced the President has little need to campaign actively in the South. He holds a commanding lead in public opinion polls throughout the region.

Nixon's Democratic opponent, Sen. George S. McGovern has virtually written off all of the South with the exception of Texas.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Biegler said earlier this week that Nixon supports all Republican candidates for the Senate and House.

Bill restricts strip mining

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has approved overwhelmingly and sent to the Senate a bill to restrict strip coal mining, especially on slopes and scarred land.

Opponents of the bill that carried by a 265-to-75 margin Wednesday, said it would reduce coal supplies and drive up the cost of energy to consumers.

Strip mining is a process of scraping away topsoil to surface mine coal.

The Senate has held up consideration of its own weaker bill pending the outcome of the House vote.

Rep. Wayne Aspinall, R-Colo., the lame duck chairman of the House Interior Committee, said he opposed the bill because "I think there will be a 1-2 percent decrease in the energy production."

Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, said enactment of this bill "would reduce the nation's production of coal by 25 percent almost overnight."

But the bill's floor manager, Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., said the legislation was actually "moderate" and that the alternative was "an outright ban next year" on strip mining.

The bill prohibits strip mining on slopes of more than 20 degrees without proof of environmental controls and authorizes the Interior Secretary to issue regulations governing slopes of 14 degrees in some cases of potential acute environmental damage.

The measure also sets aside $100 million for the Interior Department to purchase strip-mined land and restore it.

Last battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Manny Celler won his last battle in Congress Wednesday night.

The 84-year-old congressman from Flatbush, Emanuel Celler, dean of the House and chairman of the Judiciary Committee, went to the aid of a bill that might otherwise have died.

The bill was not one of the momentous pieces of legislation to pass Congress this year. It would merely extend the expiration date of all present copyrights to Dec. 31, 1974.

But there was strong opposition, and its passage was a personal victory for the man who headed the Judiciary Committee for 22 years, sat through 25 Congresses, worked personally with six Presidents, and saw at least 300 of his bills enacted into law.

Celler accepted forced retirement this year, losing his seat to 31-year-old Democratic primary.

"This is the last bill I shall have the privilege of espousing in these hallowed halls," Celler intoned at the end of a long speech, his voice breaking.

Saigon fighting kills American

SAIGON (UPI)—The new Communist campaign around Saigon claimed its first American life today when a U.S. Army soldier was killed and another wounded in a highway ambush outside the capital, military spokesmen said.

Heavy fighting continued north of Saigon for the sixth day, field reports said. Government troops pushed Viet Cong units out of two hamlets along Highway 13 but were unable to dislodge the Communists from a third despite air strikes and artillery barrages aimed directly at the village, the reports said.

In other war developments:

Military sources said Communist troops stormed a border ranger outpost Wednesday in the Central Highlands and killed 67 of its mountain tribesman defenders. The sources said another 90 of the rangers were missing.

A U.S. Navy spokesman, commenting on French and North Vietnamese allegations that American warplanes Wednesday bombed the French and Algerian missions in downtown Hanoi, said today that U.S. jets flew their normal daily raids over the North but added "We have nothing to indicate that any of the bombs were off target." He said he was not sure if any of the planes passed over central Hanoi en route to or from the targets.

U.S. military spokesmen said the damage to the missions may have been caused by errant Communist surface-to-air missiles that fell back to earth. But Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird conceded the missions could have been accidentally bombed.

Hansen for spending limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, voted for the House measure placing a federal spending ceiling at $250 billion through June 30, 1973.

Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, was listed as not voting when the measure came up. It was approved by a 221-163 roll call vote.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — to provide inexpensive overnight accommodations — a system which is very popular in Europe.

The young lobbyists said hitchhiking should be recognized as a legitimate mode of travel that is as safe as other kinds of human activity.

They also called for defeat of a Senate-passed measure by Sen. Lawrence Walsh, D-Huntington Park, that would ban hitchhiking at many freeway ramps.

Richard Vega of San Diego said the "ingenious" Polish system could be adapted easily for California if approved by the 1973 legislature.

He explained that hitchhikers would pay a few dollars to enter the voluntary program. If the applicant wasn't a criminal or a former mental patient, he or she would be issued a coupon

There's a little something in the plan for everybody, said Vega, who drove to the news conference from San Diego, but said he made a point to pickup hitchhikers along the way.

Claims of firm rapped

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Unless Prudential Insurance Co. of America plans to pass out chips off the old rock of Gibraltar, or share its vast financial empire with policyholders, Insurance Commissioner Thomas D. O'Malley wants its current advertising campaign stopped.

O'Malley issued a three-page order Tuesday setting a Dec. 6 hearing for the giant insurance company to show why it should not be ordered to halt its "Own a piece of the rock" advertisements in Florida.

"Such advertisements encouraged viewers to 'Buy a piece of the rock' and thereby acquire an interest in steel mills, the Empire State Building, textile companies, tire manufacturing companies and fashion design industry," O'Malley said.

"Such advertisements deceptively misrepresent to the viewers that policy holders of Prudential Insurance Co. of America are entitled to act in a managerial capacity, overseeing the operations of the various enterprises which are 'a piece of the rock'."

O'Malley gave the company a verbal warning last month, saying its advertising campaign was "degrading" to the insurance industry.

He said insurance advertising should rely on comparisons of coverage and exclusions, rather than catchy slogans and jingles.

Jehovah's Witnesses murdered

BLANTYRE, Malawi (UPI) — Tribesmen have killed at least 10 Jehovah's Witnesses and burned the homes of others in the past week, sources within the religious sect said today.

The government news agency Mana reported that one unidentified tribal chief has ordered members of the fundamentalist sect to leave their homes in his area but Mana gave no further details.

Sources within the sect said large numbers of witnesses have fled to neighboring Mozambique and Zambia to escape the killing.

The Jehovah's Witnesses were banned in Malawi in 1967, because its members refused to join the Malawi Congress party (MCP) — Malawis only political party — and refused to sing the national anthem or serve in the army.

Last month, the MCP Congress voted unanimously to approve resolutions urging that the estimated 30,000 Jehovah's Witnesses remaining in the country be fired from their jobs and evicted from their homes.

Civil servants who refused to buy MCP membership cards already have been fired and evicted from government homes and eyewitnesses said many were beaten.

Fair chance for trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson believes there is a "fair chance" for the United States to negotiate a trade agreement with the Soviet Union before the end of the year.

Peterson told about 200 officials of the National Newspaper Association and their wives Tuesday that the administration was making "good progress" this week in negotiations with Soviet officials on maritime problems, lend lease repayments, trade and credit arrangements.

Nixon called 'most totalitarian'

Massagers said dangerous

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sears, Roebuck and Co. said Tuesday the purchasers of 11,000 belt massagers may be in for a shock — a potentially dangerous electric shock.

Executives for the mail order company said units might produce a serious shock if the belt massager were touched by someone who was also touching a water pipe, radiator, faucet or other ground connection.

The machine was identified as a multi speed belt massager with a push-button, lighted switch and the model number 449.29110 on a plate located underneath the unit's motor housing.

Sears said customers who had purchased a massager since 1969 should immediately unplug the machine, verify its model number and notify the nearest Sears store. Sears will service the unit in a customer's home without charge, a spokesman said.

By RICHARD CHARNICK
BOISE (UPI) — Presidential contender John G. Schmitz called Richard Nixon today the nation's most totalitarian President, and said his fight with Sen. George McGovern is "as phony as a professional wrestling match."

At a fast-talking news conference the American Party candidate said he offers the nation a viable choice between the Democratic and Republican nominees — adding his party is truly trying to preserve the two-party system.

Schmitz also planned a Utah visit today.

He made the comment about Nixon when asked if he agreed with McGovern that the incumbent administration is the most corrupt in American history.

In the guise of moderate conservatism, Richard Nixon is totalitarianizing this country," Schmitz said.

Rather than calling this administration history's most corrupt, he said, "I think its totalitarian and that's institutionalized corruption."

"Right now I'd settle for some of those old eastern corrupt politicians," he said.

Schmitz said he hoped to do better in this election than George Wallace did as the American Party candidate in 1968.

"I want to make this crystal clear," Schmitz said with a grin, "I'm in this to win."

Schmitz also said he is against federal gun controls believes the nation should not engage in war unless it means to win and recommends draft dodgers remain in Canada or other places to which they fled.

Asked for his prescription for ending the war, Schmitz said if elected, "I would cut off all trade with the enemy."

"We are furnishing the arms of war to both sides," he said, adding that both planes and trucks are built in the United States for use on opposite sides in Vietnam.

He said President Nixon in his negotiations with the Russians, especially as they involve trade between the two nations, is okaying what President Kennedy stopped 12 years ago.

As for being a conservative he said Nixon is "The best example of that old adage—if you get the reputation of an early riser, you can sleep until eleven."

Schmitz said he did not believe the current talks between presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and the North Vietnamese in Paris will result in an end to the war.

Would-be thief 'talked' away

DETROIT (UPI) — A divorced mother of six has outfoxed a would-be thief with her tales of financial woe.

Helen O'Brien talked her way out of a holdup Tuesday by lecturing the would be robber on the high costs of raising a family.

Mrs. O'Brien has worked to support her children who range in age from 6 to 20 including one son in college and a retarded daughter cared for in an out-of-state institution.

She was sitting in her car near her home getting ready to drive to a nearby bank when a young man pulled open the car door.

"He stuck his head right next to mine and said 'Give me your money,'" Mrs. O'Brien said. "I told him that I support six children and that no one gives me any money and that it costs me all my money to raise my kids."

While the irate mother continued her talk, her assailant repeatedly reached into his jacket as if for a gun. But Mrs. O'Brien rattled on.

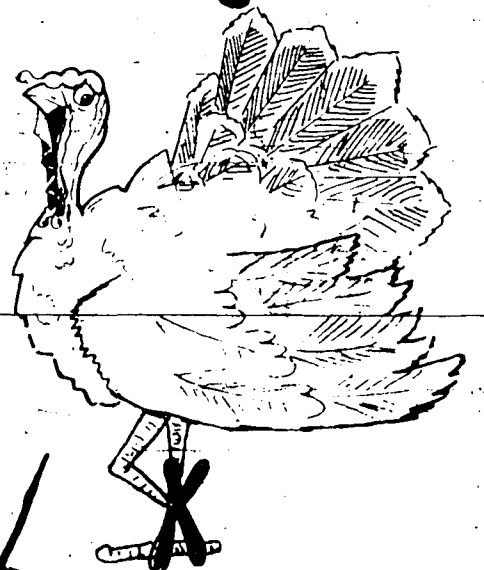

"Maybe I got through to him," she said. "He finally stood up, stared at me and looked like he was thinking it over. Then he tapped me on the shoulder and said 'See ya' and walked away."

"When you're divorced and raising six kids there are lots of times in your life when you have to rely on sheer courage," she said.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A prospective adoptive mother asked you for help in replying to "dear, kindly, well-meaning" friends and relatives who ask personal questions about the adoption.

May I help? I have been thru it four times and have heard all comments and questions. Here are some tried and true responses:

Q. "Oh, isn't it a shame you can't have 'children of your own'?"

A. "Not really; there's a lot of insanity in both our families."

Q. "Do you know all about the parents?"

A. "Everything. One was male. The other was female."

Q. "Did the adoption agency try to match your features, coloring and personalities?"

A. "Good grief. I hope not!"

Q. "Aren't you worried about hereditary factors?"

A. "Heavens, no. Regardless of how bad their ancestors were, they've GOT to be better than ours!"

Best wishes!

BEEN THERE

DEAR ABBY: So much has been printed about alcoholism, but nothing is said about the problems of nondrinkers. For instance, when we go into a restaurant that serves liquor, the moment we sit down the waitress whips over to our table and asks, "What would you like to drink?"

When we say, "Nothing," she disappears and leaves us sitting there for what seems an eternity before she comes back to take our food order.

This happens to us all the time. My husband is no tightwad or sourpuss, quite the contrary, he is friendly, courteous and generous, but when this happens, he never leaves a tip!

So, the nondrinkers get a reputation for not tipping. Lately we have been complaining to the management, and we always get the feeble excuse, "She must have been busy." If so, how come she had the time to ask us if we wanted a drink, which would have been served immediately had we ordered one?

We try to avoid places that serve liquor for this reason. Any comment from you, waitresses, or the management?

NONDRINKER

DEAR NON: It's my guess that management instructs the waitresses to take the drink orders immediately to keep the customers happy (and "relaxed")—especially when they are busy. But there is no excuse for being ignored because no drinks were ordered. Next time, when the waitress asks for a drink order, say, "No drinks, thank you, but we would like to see a menu and place our food orders now, please." If that doesn't work, walk out, and tell the manager why.

DEAR ABBY: Where does privacy between the sexes begin and/or end? At our school, where I am a male teacher, there are two or three female teachers who like to hang around and visit in the men's lounge.

The other day, while I was sitting in the men's lounge eating my lunch, one of these female teachers came in to eat her lunch and visit with the men teachers. I said I didn't think it was such a good idea for her to come into our lounge for an extended visit, whereupon she became angry and left in a huff. Now, these women teachers ignore me when they see me on the campus or else resort to catcalls when I pass the men's lounge and they are sitting in there visiting.

Before I became a teacher, I worked in a private office, and I never once saw a woman go into a men's lounge, and never saw a man go into a women's lounge.

MALE TEACHER IN PHOENIX

DEAR TEACHER: I'm with you. But wait, you ain't seen nuthin' yet!

If your cat sleeps a lot longer period—say a week—he may than usual over an extended be ill. Have a vet check him.

Halloween lore

NEW YORK (UPI) — Weird, ancient superstitions surround the celebration of Halloween in some parts of the world. Sally Hopkins, research historian for Hallmark Cards, says that on Scotland's lonely moors the devil is said to appear in kilts at Halloween, playing bagpipes or clicking castanets made of dead men's bones.

Legends from Ireland recount that country folk formerly protected their animals against goblins and ghosts by placing around their necks bells that had been blessed. Farmers there also put crossed branches and juniper on doors at Halloween to prevent witches from harming their horses. In England, according to Miss Hopkins, there's a time-honored myth that if a person eats a crust of bread just before retiring on Halloween, any wish he desires will be granted by morning.

Trial and error approach wrong

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many Americans mistakenly believe that taking vitamins provides pep and energy and they make decisions on personal health problems by the "anything is worth a try" approach, the government reported Tuesday.

The trial and error approach to solving personal health problems is the major underlying cause of questionable health practices in the United States, according to the results of a national study released by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The department said vitamins are essential to health in providing small doses of minerals to prevent deficiency disease, but there is no substantial medical evidence that human energy is improved from taking them.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One of the most effective bids in match-point duplicate is the premature save. At least, it is effective when it pushes your opponents one trick beyond their limit.

It turns out to be a disaster when, instead of being stumped into the stratosphere, they stop to double you and it turns out that they couldn't make a game.

East's jump to five diamonds was one of those premature saves. He decided that his opponents could make four spades and that the loss his partner would take at five diamonds doubled would be less than the score for a vulnerable game.

He was pretty sure that if he bid four diamonds and then five he would be doubled and he hoped that his quick jump to that contract might get him a reprieve.

It did. South decided that five spades would wheel in and that he couldn't set five diamonds enough to cover the loss of the game.

He was right to that extent. West would be down 500 at five diamonds doubled.

He was wrong in his major premise. He couldn't make spades since the defense collected a diamond and two clubs before he could gain the lead.

What do you bid now?

— A — Bid three no-trump. Your partner may well be stalling forward a slam. If he is, he will find a further bid now.

TODAY'S QUESTION

"Your" partner does find a further bid. It is six no-trump. What do you do now?

Magic Valley Favorites

ANNABELLE LOONEY
642 Oriental Ave., Burley

SAUERKRAUT CAKE

2 1/2 cups flour, sifted
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cup unsweetened cocoa
2 1/2 cups butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla

2-3 cups rinsed, drained and chopped sauerkraut

Grease and flour two eight-inch round cake pans. On waxed paper, sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and cocoa.

In a large bowl, cream butter and sugar. Thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time and the vanilla. Stir in dry ingredients, in four additions alternately with water. Beat until smooth each time, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Stir in sauerkraut, turn into prepared pans.

Bake at 350 degrees until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean, about 30 minutes.

Place on racks to cool for 10 minutes. Turn out of pans to cool completely. Fill and frost with mocha frosting.

MOCHA WHIPPED CREAM

Whip one and one-half cups whipping cream with three tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon instant coffee, two teaspoons unsweetened cocoa, and if desired, two tablespoons rum, until soft peaks form. Store in refrigerator. A fudge frosting mix may be used.

The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department.

Springdale school classes remain closed until Monday

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

SPRINGDALE — School pupils here will remain out of classes until Monday while school officials search for an approved water supply and plan a new sewage disposal system.

The decision was reached in a special Cassia County School Board meeting at Dworshak Elementary School in Burley that began Wednesday evening and stretched past midnight.

Parents of Springdale pupils also attended the emergency session.

The Springdale situation became critical Wednesday when Cassia Supt. Harold Blauer ordered the elementary school closed.

His action came after a series of State Board of Health edicts condemning the school's water supply and disapproving the temporary practice of trucking drinking water to the school in a tank.

The health department condemnation of the school's water came Monday in a letter read at a regular school board meeting. The letter said tests taken Sept. 29 indicated intestinal bacteria in the water supply and pointed out "the close proximity of (water) well to component parts of the sewage disposal system" as a possible source of contamination.

The sewage system cesspool drainfield is presently within 25 feet of the well, according to Blauer. Health officials advise that at least 100 feet should separate the two.

School trustees ordered the Springdale drinking water system shut off Monday and instructed Blauer to have water hauled in. A 400 gallon National Guard water trailer was brought into use Tuesday.

A telephone call from the health department to Blauer came the same day, advising him that the trucked water was not tested and approved and that water in the school's restroom sinks could be consumed by the students. Blauer then called off Wednesday's school day and arranged the emergency board meeting.

Wednesday night's session was dominated by two factions — those wanting to retain classes at the Springdale school and bring the school water and sewage system up to health department standards and those wanting a permanent closure of the school with the resultant busing of students to another Cassia teaching site.

The former group was comprised of school trustees Winslow Whiteley, Charles Ward, Dan Crane and Dr. Paul Brown, the board chairman, school district attorney Herman Bedke and Springdale parents.

The latter faction was headed by Supt. Blauer with trustee Pat Kelly in support.

James Hanzel, spokesman for the parents said they wanted to "hold the school intact" and repair the deficiencies in order to complete the academic year.

Hanzel said, "We are definitely against permanent closing. We ask that you run something on a temporary basis. If we do have to farm the students out, we are in favor of them going to Declo on a temporary basis."

Blauer established his position with one sentence. "My recommendation is to close the school permanently," he said.

He said the health department was concerned about two points — the water supply and the sewage disposal system — and any solution must solve both problems.

Blauer said Health department demands should not be sidestepped. "The health department said they would file suit if we re-open the school without their approval," he said.

Blauer's comments were prompted by several opinions aired at the meeting questioning the authority of the health department and suggesting means of by-passing its demands.

Bedke said, "I think as long as we are doing something and attempting to fix it the health department will have to go along. They wouldn't recommend our steps, but they couldn't prevent them."

Much of the controversy centered on the possibility of tapping a nearby uncontaminated source of water for the school. Private residential wells were suggested, but the source most cited was the Springdale LDS Church approximately one-fourth mile east of the school.

Proponents of the idea said the students could then remain in the school with no worry about the water's purity.

But those opposed said no solution as to the sewage facility was included.

Kendall Daley, principal of the Springdale and Declo Elementary Schools, said sewage has backed up through drains into the boy's restroom and the lunchroom for the past three years. He said a plugged baffle in the septic tank has prevented the effluent from flowing into the drain field.

One motion was defeated and another died for lack of a second before agreement was finally reached through a motion by trustee Ward.

He proposed that school be dismissed until Monday, that a health department approved source of water be tapped temporarily and that plans be initiated for a new sewage system to be built at an approved distance from the present water supply.

Ward said if the present water supply does not meet health department standards after the sewage system is relocated, a new well should be drilled. Ward's motion passed with Trustee Crane casting the only dissenting vote.

15 Utahns tour Idaho districts

TWIN FALLS — A group of about 15 Salt Lake City businessmen left Twin Falls, continuing a goodwill tour of Idaho cities.

In the group were members of the Salt Shakers, a unit within the Salt Lake City Chamber of Commerce. The group functions as a public relations unit and most of the men in the group visiting Idaho are wholesalers who do business with firms in Idaho.

Armed with color slides and anecdotes, the group tours western states promoting the Utah capital's image and emphasizing the interdependence of all states and communities.

The group stopped in Burley Wednesday for a luncheon meeting with members of the Burley Chamber of Commerce, then traveled by bus to Twin Falls where they and members of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce joined in a cocktail hour and dinner.

The Salt Shakers were originally members of the Wholesale Trade Commission, business men who improve to better trade relations between Salt Lake City and community markets.

The group wears distinctive white blazers, black ties and lapel patches of an outline of Salt Lake. The Salt Shakers function similar to the Jockey Club of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Following the group's stay in Twin Falls, the Salt Shakers traveled this morning to Boise and from there will return to Salt Lake City.

Chatburn Day set in Oakley

ALBION — Cassia County Republicans are planning a Vard Chatburn Day, Oct. 20 here.

On the program set for 8 p.m. will be Sen. Len Jordan, Rep. James McClure and Rep. Orval Hansen as speakers. Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy, Shoshone, will be master of ceremonies for the evening. The event will be at the Oregon Trail Festival of the Arts.

The event is open to the public and will include a smorgasbord dinner served at the cafeteria facilities on the Albion campus. James Roper, county chairman, said tickets for the dinner are now on sale. Facilities will accommodate about 300 persons.

The McClure bus will arrive in Burley about 4 p.m. Oct. 20 for a brief stop at Ponderosa Inn to meet area residents.

Prominent legislators will attend the evening program at Albion which will be a tribute to Rep. Chatburn, who has served nine terms in the legislature as a Cassia County legislator. He has served on several major committees in the legislature, and presently is serving as chairman of the State Resources and Conservation Committee.

After McClure's bus leaves the Ponderosa Inn it will stop briefly at the Cassia County GOP headquarters at 1519 Overland Ave. to formally open the facilities.

All county candidates will travel on the bus to Albion and will be introduced during the evening.

New Idaho VD program set

BOISE (UPI) — Confusion over the issue has allowed the incidence of venereal disease to surpass all other diseases except the common cold, Dr. John Mather, director of the Preventive Medicine Division of the Department of Environmental Protection and Health said Wednesday.

To meet the epidemic head-on, the division is initiating a new venereal disease education program, Mather said. Beginning next week a series of educational workshops for junior and senior high school teachers will be held throughout the state, followed by a summer seminar at Boise State College.

Mather said he believes the educational approach will determine whether gonorrhea and syphilis will be controlled in the foreseeable future.

"Young people need to know about venereal disease and how they spread," Mather said. "An accurately informed and knowledgeable teacher is probably the best source of information for most young people."

Candidates meet set in Jerome

JEROME — The Jerome County Farm Bureau is sponsoring a meet the candidates meeting at 8 p.m. today at Wood Cafe.

All candidates for local offices have been invited to attend, regardless of party affiliation.

Expected to be on hand are the five candidates for the office of Jerome County sheriff. Each candidate will be given an opportunity to present his views on local issues.

The Farm Bureau will also sponsor a "meet the candidate" night for legislative candidates Oct. 19. The meeting will be attended by candidates from Legislative District No. 23. It will begin at 8 p.m. at the American Legion Hall.

Anyone interested in hearing the candidates speak is invited to both meetings, Farm Bureau spokesmen said.

Grand jury indicts 2 Idaho jail escapees

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A federal grand jury has indicted two Idaho jail escapees in the alleged kidnaping of an Iowa man.

The indictment returned Tuesday charged James M. Shields, 20, and Wallace L. Rhodes, Jr., 22, with the kidnaping of Russell E. Batton, 41, of Britt, Iowa, near Emmons, Minn., in September.

Shields, of Mountain Home, and Rhodes, of Clark County, Nev., escaped from the Elmore County Jail at Mountain Home on the morning of Sept. 17. Their flight took them across Idaho, Montana, and several other midwestern states before they were apprehended outside a Memphis, Tenn., pawn shop.

Batton, identified as a retired Marine Corps sergeant, was allegedly kidnapped in Minnesota and was still with the two fugitives when they were arrested by Memphis detectives. He told newsmen after his release he had been forced to drive the pair to Chicago, Detroit, and Nashville, Tenn.

Federal charges alleging interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle, interstate transportation of weapons by a convicted felon, and interstate transportation of stolen firearms were also to be presented to the grand jury Tuesday in Memphis.

Shields and Rhodes are being held in the Shelby County Jail in Memphis in lieu of $500,000 bond each, set following their arrest in Memphis.

In addition, charges have been filed by three states against the pair. Rhodes is accused of assault with intent to murder and carrying a dangerous weapon, while Shields is charged with attempting to pawn stolen merchandise. Those charges were filed by Memphis police resulted from the incident at the pawnshop which brought their arrest.

In addition, Rosebud County, Mont., has charged the pair with first degree murder, kidnapping and grand larceny, and officers there have indicated they plan to extradite Shields and Rhodes to face those charges.

Those charges result from the alleged shooting of Donald Kalberg, a Hardin, Mont., jeweler, at a roadside park east of Forsyth, Mont. Montana officials allege Kalberg was kidnapped and his auto stolen before the shooting.

Elmore County officers have filed charges of escaping from custody, kidnapping and robbery.

Shields and Rhodes allegedly forced a Mountain Home police officer to drive them out of town, then stopped a car driven by a Dayville, Ore., couple, and resumed their flight after forcing them from the car. The Oregon auto was later found in Montana.

Bax backs 'individual'

BOISE (UPI) — James A. Bax, administrator of the state's Environmental Protection and Health Department, thinks government should work for the individual — especially the poor, the old and those who cannot help themselves.

Last week, Bax issued an unprecedented order directing a nursing home in Caldwell to take corrective action on some 50 points, including the regular changing of patient's bed sheets.

"There is no reason for this to exist," Bax, 35, said during an interview with United Press International. "I would hate to think that is the future that lies ahead for Idaho's elderly. We're dealing with the old and ill and it is a bad situation."

He said he would take action against other nursing homes in the state if they did not meet state standards that have been on the books for the last 10 years.

"It was the first time in 10 years that anyone has had their strings jerked," Bax said, referring to nursing homes. "There's more to come and we are going to pursue this throughout the state."

(Wednesday, at Caldwell, Third District Judge Edward J. Lodge cancelled a scheduled hearing on Bax's motion for a permanent injunction against the nursing home pending further investigation of the allegations. Attorneys for both sides agreed to the cancellation and no date for a future hearing was set.)

Bax agrees he is a "people person" and feels that state government should be working for the individual.

If the past performance of the New York-born Bax is any indication, the underprivileged have a friend in state government.

While in Florida as head of the state's health and rehabilitative services, Bax made surprise visits to prisons and reform schools and spearheaded a drive for reform.

High on his list of priorities is a close look at the Idaho child care centers and pre-school facilities along with the state youth centers and mental health facilities.

Shoshone pool benefit slated

SHOSHONE — Funds raised from sale of coffee and cake from 2 to 5 p.m. Friday at the Manhattan Cafe, Shoshone, will go to the swimming pool fund.

At the Rotary Club meeting Wednesday recognition was given women of the community who handled an earlier auction to raise funds for the pool.

They included Mrs. Robert Maddock, Mrs. Tom Beltia, Mrs. E. C. Hahn, Mrs. Lila Peterson and Mrs. R. D. Warbis.

A total of $2,225.45 was cleared on the auction. In another fund project at the Singletree Saloon last weekend, $121.30 was raised.

Francis Bergin, secretary for the Rotary Club, said these funds bring the pool fund to about $10,000. It will be necessary to raise about $35,000 on a local basis before matching funds will guarantee construction of the pool.

The Rotary Club program Wednesday was presented by Rev. Michael Fitzgibbons who told of the new laws and programs within the state to handle intoxicated drivers. There are 26 new state policemen working from 7 p.m. to 4 a.m. on the state's highways, he said. The number of intoxicated drivers picked up and intoxication test data is tabulated on computers in Boise. There have been 350 drunken drivers arrested since the program went into effect this summer. A federal grant in the amount of $1 million is paying for the salaries, equipment and office equipment for the program, he said.

He said the treatment program available to the intoxicated driver through the mental health program and voluntary schools they may attend for a $35 fee.

Realtors hear will status

SHOSHONE — Howard E. Adkins, Lincoln County prosecutor, told members of the Northside Board of Realtors he feels wills are important under the uniform probate code.

He told realtors at a meeting Wednesday night that the code, adopted July 1, 1972, voids the community property law, increasing the need for a valid will. He said, however, that persons who filed community property agreements during the time the law was in effect may have them recognized, depending upon the decision of the title company, in case of desire to sell property.

"Under the new law, I heartily recommend that wills be made," Adkins said.

Adkins also said that with no precedent established this leaves Idaho in a "somewhat trial and error period" in administering the new code.

He listed what he considered the better things about the new law and the "pitfalls." Some of the good things he mentioned are the fact that the time element for probate can be shortened, fewer papers need to be filed, investment of more authority to act in the personal representative and ability to change from formal to informal type probate petitions.

Some of the pitfalls he discussed included less supervision by the judge, lack of a bond requirement for the personal representative and a three year deadline for filing of wills.

Adkins also said considerably more responsibility is placed on title companies than under the previous probate law.

Harrell Thorne, host for the evening, introduced Adkins.

During the business meeting, conducted by Carl Butler, Jerome, president, a report on the state real estate convention was given by John LeMoynes, Hagerman.

LeMoynes said there are 1,150 members of the state real estate organization with 2,300 active real estate people from the 3,300 licensees in the state of Idaho.

Meetings of presidents, secretaries and directors of real estate boards will be Oct. 27 and 28. LeMoynes said tax shelters will be the main topic of discussion at the 1973 spring clinics.

Glen Jackson and Leon Stockton, Jerome, will assist Butler in preparing board bylaws to submit to the state board of realtors.

Guests introduced besides Mr. and Mrs. Adkins were Barbara Newell, Shoshone, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Dixon, Gooding.

James Muffley, Gooding, will host the Nov. 8 meeting.

Tigers rally in 10th to overhaul Athletics 4-3

DETROIT (UPI)—Jim Northrup singled over a drawn-in outfield Wednesday with the bases full and none out in the 10th inning to climax a dramatic three-run rally which gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 win over the Oakland Athletics and set up an American League championship clash Thursday.

Northrup's decisive hit off Dave Hamilton, the sixth A's pitcher to enter the game, drove in pinch hitter Gates Brown from third base with the winning run, and set off another invasion of hysterical fans onto the turf of Tiger Stadium.

Hundreds in the crowd of 37,615 were on the field before all the Tiger heroes could reach the dugout and some players had to fight to safety.

The fans, duplicating their performance when the Tigers a week ago won the American League's east division crown, tore up sod in numerous sections of the field, and were trying to make off with home plate until a security guard stood on it.

The win turned the tables on Oakland, since it almost duplicated the win by the A's in their park in the first game of the best-of-five playoff series for the AL pennant and the World Series chance.

In that contest, the teams were tied 1-1 after nine innings, and the Tigers took a 2-1 lead in the 11th only to have the A's come from behind as Gonzalo Marquez scored Mike Hegan with the tying run with a pinch single, which also set up an error by Al Kaline on which the A's Gene Tenace came home with the winning run.

Wednesday, with the teams tied again at 1-1 after nine innings, the A's grabbed a 3-1 lead in the 10th, again with Marquez a key factor. But this time the Tigers had a chance to square the account and they did.

Dick McAuliffe, who homered in the third for the Tigers' first run, and Kaline singled off A's pitcher Bob Locker. Joe Horlen came in to pitch to Gates Brown and threw a wild pitch on which both runners advanced. Brown walked to fill the bases, and McAuliffe scored when Bill Freehan grounded to third baseman Sal Bando on a fielder's choice.

Tenace dropped Bando's throw to second on the play for the A's second error of the game, so the bases remained full as Hamilton replaced Horlen on the mound for Oakland.

Sonics stave off 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Spencer Haywood paced a balanced attack with 22 points as the Seattle SuperSonics held off a late Philadelphia rally for a 105-100 victory over the 76ers in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

Seattle led by 19 points, 69-50, with 6:56 remaining in the third quarter. Philadelphia then began pecking away and the Sonics led by 81-69 starting the final period. Philadelphia cut Seattle's lead to 97-94 with 4:08 left. But then field goals by Dick Snyder and Jim McDaniels made it 101-94 with 2:56 remaining and the 76ers could not get closer than five points the rest of the way.

Philadelphia had won eight straight home openers before losing Wednesday night.

College coach new Cal skipper

ANAHEIM (UPI)—The California Angels fired manager Del Rice Wednesday and replaced him with former college coach Bobby Winkles.

Winkles, 42, joined the Angels as a coach early this year after a successful career as coach at Arizona State where he won three national championships.

General manager Harry Dalton announced the changes at an Anaheim Stadium news conference. Dalton himself was a newcomer with the Angels this season, coming here from the Baltimore Orioles where he was director of player personnel.

Winkles was signed to a one-year contract at an undisclosed salary.

Dalton said Rice would be welcome to remain in the Angel organization if he wishes. Rice was not present.

Allen held in 2 counts

DENVER (UPI)—Lucius Allen of the Milwaukee Bucks was charged Wednesday on two counts of possession of marijuana and conspiracy to possess marijuana, the district attorney's office said.

Allen, 25, and Stephen E. Duncan, 23, a student at Columbia, Mo., were arrested last week following a preseason basketball game between the Bucks and the Denver Broncos. Buck superstar Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and another student identified as Mordecai C. Cook, 23, of Seattle, Wash., also were questioned in the incident but later cleared.

Deputy District Attorney Jim Wentzel said Allen and Duncan will be arraigned in district court Oct. 20. They do not have to appear in court because the charges are misdemeanors and an attorney could enter pleas for them, Wentzel said.

Duncan also was charged with two counts of possession and conspiracy to possess dangerous drugs, identified by Wentzel as LSD and D-L amphetamine. Each of the charges against Allen and Duncan carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $500 fine.

Steelhead fishing started

SALMON — Despite slow steelhead fishing over the weekend, fishing is expected to improve as the month progresses.

Don Carley, regional fisheries biologist for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, said that normally the best fishing is the latter part of October.

Corley checked 165 anglers Saturday and Sunday at a check station at North Fork who had caught 25 fish. They had spent 34 hours per fish Saturday and 53 hours per fish Sunday.

Hatchery fish made up 50 per cent of the catch while a year ago at this time the rate was 60 per cent.

Corley said the fish being caught are some of the first coming into the area.

Scotchball

The final scotchball tournament of the year will be played at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Twin Falls municipal course.

The couples event will cover 18 holes, co-sponsored by the men's and women's golf associations. A potluck dinner will be served after the event.

Kaline says Tigers will win

DETROIT (UPI)—Call it momentum, emotion or determination.

Al Kaline's been there before and he says the Detroit Tigers have it again.

"It all goes down to one game," says the man who's seen the Tigers in that situation several times since they came back to win the World Series in 1968.

Even when he's not the star of the game, Kaline is surrounded by newsmen as he sits by his locker in the Tiger dressing room. He speaks quietly and with determination.

"I don't scream or yell like some. But, you know emotions are the name of the game," says the veteran of nearly 20 American League years, who says next season probably will be his last.

Kaline came into the American League championship series against the Oakland Athletics off the best season he's had since 1961 when he batted .324. He nailed 22 hits in his last 44 times at bat and finished the regular season at .313.

He's five for 15 in the playoffs, including a single in that crazy 10th-inning Wednesday when Detroit came back from a 3-1 deficit to take it, 4-3, and push it all down to "one game" today.

"When we came off the field, everybody on the bench was yelling: 'Come on, let's give them a finish. Let's get a runner or two on base and maybe somebody will hit one out of here. But let's give them a finish.'"

"That's the kind of bench we've had all year, especially when it comes down to the clutch. They pump you up," he said.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: With the sun goes down, a Mars aspect is in operation that indicates it could be one of those proverbial Friday 13th days. But if you approach it with a new attitude and use good, mature judgment and avoid being hasty in speech or action, this influence can be handled successfully during the daytime. The evening is excellent for romance, social and artistic matters.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't rely on partners for the duties at hand of a practical nature, since they are busy, but carry through yourself gallantly. Showing devotion to those you love in p.m. is fine. Think more kindly of others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) First get your work done, and then go out and discuss some fine new ideas you have with experts so you can commercialize on them. Take advantage of an opportunity for fine recreation tonight. Meet charming personalities.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Come to the right decisions where your plans for expansion are concerned. One who is a true expert can give you just the right pointers you need. Contact this person early for best results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't enter into any arguments that don't concern you at all, but keep busy at own affairs and get ahead faster. Not a good day for an important meeting. Postpone until a better time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your work should be handled well and early so you can show devotion to those who mean the most to you in p.m. Do some entertaining at home in p.m. to delight all there. Show generosity as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are highly inspired, but your ideas need careful study and sifting if they're to be put into successful operation. Write to out-of-towners for suggestions, advice. Get backing for them tactfully.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to rush pell-mell toward your aims, but a measured pace and deliberate thought bring better results. Put that charm you have to work properly. Don't permit one of the opposite sex to downgrade you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't commit yourself heavily where money is concerned, and be sure to study any investments well first. A good friend or two will gladly go along with aims you have in mind. A romantic evening in the offing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen carefully to what others are saying and use caution in speaking to bigwigs and those who have much more experience than you. Show good friends you are affectionate and gain their respect, admiration.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You need to get the information you require if you are to advance more quickly, so contact higher-ups early and do just that. Make sure you are not egotistical or you spoil everything. Take it easy tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have some new idea for getting what is closest to your heart now, but don't take others into your confidence. A good friend could have an inflated ego, so avoid. An out-of-towner can give information you want and need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not a good day for much activity, so sit back and listen to what others are saying, make new observations and you still advance quietly. Make home or place of business neater. Add new little touches that brighten it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be one of those talent-loaded young people who will want to get into everything, so it is imperative you teach early to concentrate on those that are strongest and most practical and become a specialist in his or her field of endeavor. Then there can be great success in this chart instead of a possible frustrated person who does nothing but complain of his or her fate. An early training in right religion for your youngster is wise.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Mothers about 75 years ago were advised by the medical experts that the nose of a newborn baby was easily molded to desired shape. How this odd counsel got started remains a mystery. But for several years there, history records, mothers devoted countless hours to massaging the noses of their infants. This practice was so widespread it's highly likely your granddad's nose took quite a rubbing.

Q: "SAY a man comes home to find his surprised wife engaged in the extreme infidelity. He promptly shoots her. In how many states might such a killing be termed justifiable homicide?"

A three, I'm told. The courts of Texas, New Mexico and Utah reportedly still sometimes free a defendant after that admitted offense known as a passion shooting.

GROUPE Long have the gamblers enumerated such group words as bivy of girls, fleet of ships, bevy of thieves, host of angels, shoal of porpoises, drove of oxen, muster of peacocks, skulk of foxes, flight of doves, clutch of eggs and brood of chicks. But can you name grasshoppers in a group? Would be a cloud.

IF YOU are age 43, you were born the very year that word "astronaut" was coined. SHADES OF GREEN, contend the stargazers, look best on Capricorn women. WHERE you are that fellow James Bland who wrote "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" was born in Flushing, N. Y.

FISH How to cook fish, all kinds of fish, that's what the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries of the U. S. Department of Interior decided everybody need know.

WHAT'S the largest retail merchandiser in the world? The Defense Logistics Services Center in Battle Creek, Mich. Sells off excess federal goods.

CEDRIC ADAMS was the observer who claimed children conceived in the first half of the year are more likely to become criminals in same later on than those conceived in the last half. A statistical offense—that one.

Almanac warns of snow

DUBLIN, N. H. (UPI) — Old Abe Weatherwise warns of a "big snow" around Christmas time and advises, "Get your rubbers, boy, then your shovel."

Abe, the mythical long-range prognosticator for the Old Farmer's Almanac, foresees the storm in the 181st edition of the Almanac which went on sale today.

He says there'll be so much snow, "even skiers say enuf."

In addition to the snows, Abe sees heat, floods and drought in store for the United States during 1973. The big storm will hit the United States from the Dakotas to New England as far south as Cincinnati during the height of the Christmas shopping period, Dec. 20-25, Abe says.

In the snowbearing regions, he says there's little doubt it'll be a white Christmas.

Abe predicts snowfall in mountain areas will be of near-record proportions with 30 inches in New England right after Christmas. A Feb. 24-28 storm will drop up to 50 inches on the region.

The Old Farmer's Almanac, published every year since 1792, has expanded by 52 pages this edition from 176, upped its price by a dime to 60 cents, and increased the number of regional weather breakdowns from 10 to 16.

On the weather front, the OFA sees fierce tornadoes hitting the south central states late in March, while an early spring heat wave and heavy rains will bring floods to the upper Missouri and Mississippi river valleys.

Abe also sees a prolonged drought in the southern Great Plains foreshadowing a summer and fall drought over large areas of the country.

3 valley park projects included in new grant

BOISE — Three Magic Valley area park projects will be among those funded by a $1,681,650 grant from the Interior Department.

Parks at Gooding, Bellevue and Murtaugh will receive portions of the grant money to fund proposed acquisition and development projects. The federal funds will be matched by funds from state and local government units.

Gooding will receive $12,375 for city park improvements. Planned are the addition of a group picnic shelter, irrigation system and park benches, according to Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho.

Bellevue mayor James Pigg said he has received no official notification from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, so cannot say definitely how much money the city will receive.

According to Pigg, Bellevue applied for $46,000 to landscape and develop a city park on the site of the old school building. He said the funds will be used to provide picnic tables and barbecue pits, playground equipment, fencing, landscaping, and the means to irrigate the facility. Plans for the Bellevue park were drawn by Mrs. Dixie Ivie.

'School boardmanship' workshop slated for TF

TWIN FALLS — School trustees, superintendents and clerks from most of southwestern Idaho will meet in Twin Falls Nov. 3 and 4 for a "school boardmanship" workshop.

This is one of two workshops scheduled. The other will be on the same days in Idaho Falls.

The workshops are being conducted by cooperative arrangements of the Idaho State Department of Education, Idaho School Trustees Association and the College of Education at Idaho State University. Dr. R. Laverne Marcum, ISU associate professor of education, is project coordinator.

Similar programs are scheduled in Boise State

College and the University of Idaho.

The Twin Falls workshop will be conducted at the College of Southern Idaho, opening March 3 at 1:15 p.m. with Dr. Marcum and Alan Stanley, Blackfoot, introducing guests. Stanley is president-elect of the Idaho School Trustees Association.

Legal implications of policies involving school personnel will be discussed by Dr. Roy Truby, administrative assistant, Department of Education. He will also discuss students' rights and responsibilities. Discussions will be followed by small group reaction sessions.

Source of funds for financing Idaho schools will be discussed by Ezra Moore, assistant finance officer, Idaho Department of Education. Application of the Idaho Tort Claims act will be covered by Harold Farley, consultant, Idaho Department of Education.

Friday evening sessions will continue until 9 p.m. with discussions on "What's Ahead on Career education?" by Dr. Truby. A report on the Ad Hoc Committee on School Formula and Organization will be made by Moore.

Saturday sessions begin at 8:30 a.m. Dr. Darrell Loosle, superintendent of the Snake River District, near Blackfoot, will discuss the role of trustees and school employees in budgeting.

Other subjects include sources of funds for financing with Moore as speaker; policies and effective school board-superintendent relationships by Dr. Darrell Hatfield, superintendent, Rupert; and school board policies on transfers and their legal implications by Spencer Gardner, superintendent, Blackfoot.

Discharge and retirement policies and idea exchanges for trustees with Lawrence Knigge, Filer school board chairman and Fourth District president of the trustees' association and Dr. Hatfield and Laura McNulty, Hagerman, as discussion leaders will be scheduled Saturday afternoon.

Legal aides to meet

BURLEY — Members of five legal secretaries' associations will meet in Burley Saturday for an all-day session with state officers.

The Twin Falls Legal Secretaries will be hosts for the meeting in the Ponderosa Inn, Burley, beginning at 10 a.m.

The board of governors and executive board of the newly formed Idaho Association of Legal Secretaries will attend the meeting. Other chapters represented will include Boise, Idaho Falls, Lewiston-Clarkston, and Pocatello. The Twin Falls chapter includes membership in Burley and other Magic Valley communities.

A luncheon will follow the morning meeting and at 1 p.m. members of the board will meet to discuss general business and hear reports from committee chairmen.

Graduation policy eyed by board

KIMBERLY — Trustees of the Kimberly School District discussed the possibility of an early graduation policy in regular meeting Monday.

District officials instructed Supt. Clinton Bugg to consult with a district lawyer in formulating a procedure for students to follow who wish to graduate from Kimberly High School earlier than present district requirements allow.

In other business the trustees discussed truancy problems. The district has a policy of notifying parents on the first truancy offense, instructing parents to appear with the student before the board on the second offense, and expulsion on third offense, Bugg said.

Drivers, horses unhurt

JEROME — Two drivers and two horses escaped without injury in a two-vehicle accident Tuesday afternoon on Interstate 80N in Jerome County.

Idaho State Police said the accident occurred about 3 p.m. when a vehicle driven by Jerry Morrison, 41, Pocatello, pulling a two-horse trailer went out of control after a left rear tire blew out on the vehicle.

The Morrison vehicle sideswiped a car driven by Val Price, 30, Jerome, and then overturned in the borrow pit. The Morrison vehicle and trailer landed on its wheels. Officers said despite the rollover, the horses were apparently uninjured.

An estimated $2,000 damage was done to the Morrison vehicle and trailer and $400 to the Price car.

Pollution knocked

VIENNA (UPI)—West German space scientist Prof. Heinz Kaminski said Wednesday modern man's pollution of Northern Europe's seas has reached a "frightening" level.

"The present level of industrial waste in the seas is frightening and one must reckon with a further increase if the present industrial expansion continues," Kaminski told the 23rd International Astronautical Congress.

He said "the amount of pollution in the English Channel, the North Sea and the Baltic has reached an intolerable degree" and called on scientists and lawmakers to stop factories and sewage plants from pumping untreated waste into the seas.

"The once plentiful resources of the sea are not only in danger from industrial and domestic waste but their whole existence is in question."

Concluding his 50-page paper, Kaminski said, "the question is not the problem of getting rid of the pollution—it is a question of the existence of life on this planet."
